5E	Chan Chun Yan	 The photo shows an exhibition panel titled "Aluminium Cans Recycling Process" (鋁罐循環再造的過程). At the top, there is an advertisement for "AQUARIUS Vitaminguard" (水動樂維加) featuring a woman and a can. Below the advertisement, the panel is divided into six numbered steps (1-6) illustrating the recycling process. Step 1 shows a crushed can, step 2 shows molten metal, step 3 shows a can being formed, step 4 shows a can being washed, step 5 shows a can being inspected, and step 6 shows a finished can. Text on the panel includes: "Aluminum can recycling SAVES over 90% of the energy required to make aluminum from bauxite ore. 以廢罐再造生產鋁罐較耗能源生產可以節省百分之九十的能源。", "Hong Kong has one of the highest aluminum can recovery rates in the world. Most aluminum cans are recovered through a highly automated scanning system. 香港是全球其中一個鋁罐回收率最高的城市。絕大部份的鋁罐由拾荒者收集作廢罐再造。", and "Aluminium Cans Recycling Process 鋁罐循環再造的過程".	This is about aluminium cans recycling. The factories will recycle the used cans, smelt and makes the new cans. This saves 90% of energy comparing to make cans from ores.
5E	Cheng Chun Lok	 The photo shows an industrial facility, likely a sewage treatment plant, with several large circular tanks and yellow walkways. The tanks are labeled with numbers 4, 5, and 6. The facility is brightly lit and has a clean, modern appearance.	I think that it is so wise to build its sewage treatment plant. This not only reduces its cost, but also eases the pressure of government's sewage treatment plant.
